

The Middle East and greater Muslim World are the most significant and consequential regions shaping contemporary world politics and dynamics. Strong knowledge of the Middle East and Muslim World is a major asset to graduates seeking employment in governmental institutions and the private sector or going on to graduate school and into academia.

The Undergraduate Certificate in Middle East and Muslim World Studies, which is offered through the Mohsin and Fauzia Jaffer Center for Muslim World Studies at the Steven J. Green School of International and Public Affairs, provides students with the opportunity for a rich multidisciplinary learning experience, with a choice of courses in the fields of international relations, political science, history, religious studies, geography, sociology/anthropology, global cultural studies, and modern languages, among others. Two semesters of Arabic, Hebrew, Turkish, Persian, or another regional language are required.

Undergraduate Certificate Requirements

A total of 18 credit hours of undergraduate course work from three categories are required. All courses must be passed with a grade of C or higher. Two semesters of a regional language are required.

- 1) Core Requirement - 6 credits
- 2) Elective Courses- 6 credits
- 3) Language Requirement - up to 6 credits

For more information or to view a complete list of course requirements and fill out the application, please visit our website at jaffercenter.fiu.edu or email jaffercenter@fiu.edu.